Café owners push government to regulate shisha

Herbal tobacco. Coalition releases new poll showing many want to preserve hookah smoking

ANNALISE KLINGBEIL
annalise.klingbeil@metronews.ca

Nearly 10,000 Albertans are calling on the province to regulate the smoking of herbal shisha in restaurants and bars, rather than banning the practice outright.

After the Government of Alberta said in a 2012 report that it was exploring options to ban smoking the herbal tobacco, a group of advocates got together and created Safe Shisha.

A dozen Alberta restaurant owners, who offer the substance in their eateries, have

What is shisha?

- In Canada, establishments sell fruit-flavoured herbal tobacco that is smoked from a shisha pipe, also called a hookah or water pipe.
- There's a cultural component to the product since shisha is part of the culture of many Middle Eastern countries.

joined the Safe Shisha coalition. "My clients want to see the industry continue but they also want to see it regulated," said Don Martin, a lobbyist with Tel-lurion Solutions.

The group is calling on the government to set minimum standards for ventilation, offer shisha establishments a special licence and set standards for products, age of customers and the location of businesses that offer shisha. "It's a 100 per cent unregulated industry," Martin said.

Nearly 12,000 people have signed a petition the group is circulating and the campaign is gaining traction on social media, he said.

The coalition has also released poll results of 900 Albertans that showed many people believe a shisha ban would impact cultural diversity in Alberta and politicians could be viewed negatively if they support such a ban.

When asked if "a city councillor, mayor or MLA supporting a ban would be viewed negatively by you in the next election," 47 per cent said yes, 35 per cent said no and 18 per cent said no effect.

In the poll, respondents also voiced support for a ventilation requirement and a special classification of licence for businesses that offer shisha.

Marek taken back into custody

The owner of an Edmonton-based gore website, who was wanted on a warrant for breaching his bail conditions, was re-arrested on Friday.

Police nabbed Mark Marek, 38, at a Leduc gas station late Friday afternoon. Marek was initially arrested on a charge of corrupting morals for posting a video of an alleged murder.

According to a release, police received a tip about his whereabouts late Thursday after he was recognized from news broadcasts. METRO

Lloydminster, Sask.

Teens' deaths stun residents

Residents of Lloydminster, Sask., and surrounding communities were in shock Sunday after six area teenagers were killed in a highway crash.

Five of the six victims — three boys and three girls ranging in age from 17 to 13 — were found dead by RCMP shortly before 4:30 a.m. Saturday in a small car submerged in a slough just off the intersection of Highway 17 and Township Road 490.

The other teen, found by RCMP outside the car, was taken to a nearby hospital but later died.

"Both Lloydminster and surrounding communities are devastated," Lloydminster Mayor Jeff Mulligan told Metro. "Everyone wants to know how or why."

Korean War veterans keep memories alive

Legislature grounds. Former soldiers and dignitaries mark 60th anniversary of armistice

Albert MacBride came to honour his friends, but not to remember the war they fought in.

"I don't like to remember," he said. "I lost two good friends."

MacBride was among a dwindling number of Korean War veterans at the Alberta legislature Sunday, taking part in a ceremony marking the 60th anniversary of the ceasefire that ending the fighting.

The ceasefire did not signal the end of war, but a truce that divided Korea into north and south, which is how they have remained since.

MacBride, now 82, drove a Sherman tank during the war and said it was a difficult experience.

"Living through this is something that you would never believe," he said.

Gord Carter, who served in the artillery, said the year he spent in Korea is one he will never forget.

"It was long, cold and terrifying," he said.

Carter said the most are going to survive," he said.

Lt.-Gov. Donald Ethell told the crowd it's vital that Canadians keep coming out to remember the Korean War.

"We must be vigilant as Canadians to ensure our history is preserved and passed down," he said. "The valour of our Canadians in Korea cannot be overstated."

Carter said Canadians are now starting to pay more attention to the conflict, but for a long time it was a forgotten war.

"When we came back from Korea, no one even knew we were in Korea. There was no welcoming committee, you just got off the train at your stop," he said.

Tattoo. Repeat. Tattoo. Repeat. Tattoo. Repeat.

For 24 hours Diankh Lopez didn't sleep. She didn't eat. And she took only one bathroom break.

Lopez inked 818 tattoos this weekend in an attempt to break the world record for the most done in 24 hours by a single artist.

From Saturday morning until 11 a.m. on Sunday, for a minimum donation of $20, hundreds of people received a paw print or an infinity symbol tattooed by Lopez at Duke's Bar and Grill.

"They symbolize unwavering animal support," Lopez said of the two designs.

All proceeds from the event — a total of nearly $5,000 — were donated to the Edmonton Humane Society.

Some people opted for more than one tattoo. Lopez's husband pushed her over the previous record of 801 tattoos inked, when he asked for 25 paw-print tattoos on his legs on Sunday morning.

"I was at 776 and no one was coming in ... My husband was here supporting me and helping and he said, 'OK, tattoo 25 on me,'" Lopez

While Lopez has to send evidence (photos of every tattoo, waiver forms and a video) to Guinness World Records, she believes she has beaten the previous record of 801 tattoos in 24 hours.

Provincial flood money to depend on where you live

Albertans living in impacted flood-fringe areas will receive an average of $10,000 to beef up protection in their homes and the province will rely on a new formula to replenish — or completely rebuild — properties severely damaged by last month's historic water surges, officials announced Sunday.

But Municipal Affairs Minister Doug Griffiths conceded Sunday that mitigation in the designated flood-fringe does not necessarily mean homes will be flood-proof in the event of future disaster.

"The mitigation is about what measures can be taken ... what can we do to reduce the cost, so we're not spending $150,000 of taxpayers' dollars to redo a basement and instead making sure it's $3,000 to 4,000 to do it," he said.

During a technical briefing Sunday, however, provincial emergency management officials said homes in the flood fringe not hit with last month's flooding cannot apply for one-time mitigation funding until they are damaged in a future disaster.

But Griffiths backed off that statement slightly, saying mitigating damaged homes will be first priority.

"We don't want to spread ourselves too thin," he added.

Still, the lack of clarity was cause for great concern for Edmontonians such as Bill Moore-Kilgannon, Riverdale community league president. Many homes in his area are in the flood-fringe but escaped damaging waters in last month's surge.

"If you're in a flood-fringe, then you should be eligible for (funding) regardless of if you were flooded or not ... it's incredibly shortsighted," he said.

Mother begs thieves to return son's memorial

The sting of loss.

Teen's keepsakes go missing from the road where he was killed

Family members of an Alberta teen killed by a suspected impaired driver are pleading for thieves to return numerous keepsakes stolen from a roadside memorial.

Cochrane resident Brandon Thomas, 17, died Dec. 6 when police say a pickup being driven in the wrong lane slammed into his car head-on.

In his honour, friends and family established a roadside memorial at the spot where his vehicle came to a rest. It contained numerous keepsakes, including Brandon's wallet, model cars, an X-Box controller he carted around to friends' houses and a stuffed teddy bear from an ex-girlfriend he'd stayed close with.

These shots show a memorial set up in honour of alleged impaired-driving victim Brandon Thomas before and after it was apparently hit by thieves in Cochrane, Alta., on Friday. COURTESY KIM THOMAS

But, according to mother Kim Thomas, every item was stolen sometime Friday.

She and Brandon's sister have called the RCMP, Alberta Transportation and Rocky View County to see if any officials took the memorial down, but none claimed responsibility.

Kim is now pleading with whoever did take the items to simply return them to the spot, no questions asked.

"The value, dollar-wise, means nothing, but that's Brandon's stairway to heaven right there," Kim said. "We'll never replace any of that stuff."

One unfair fight. Police left without a single lead after random 20-man beatdown

Police are asking for the public's help in finding the attackers involved in an early-morning swarming in Dartmouth, N.S., that sent one man to hospital.

The incident occurred at 12:30 a.m. Sunday, when a group of five adults in their early 20s were attacked by about 20 young men.

None of the victims, including three men and two women, were seriously injured in what police are calling a random and unprovoked attack.

One man was sent to hospital for precautionary reasons but was later released.

A backpack was allegedly stolen from one of the women, containing identification and a cellphone. A police K-9 unit later found the bag with the phone missing.

So far police have no suspects or leads. The attackers are all described as being in their late teens or early 20s.

Girl run over

Teens surrender in apparent egg gone badly wrong

Three teen boys allegedly involved in a hit-and-run that left a girl with broken legs have turned themselves in, say police in Abbotsford, B.C.

The trio surrendered just hours after they allegedly ran the girl over.

Early Saturday, a group of teens were sitting at a bus stop when a truck slowed and two passengers started throwing eggs, police say.

One of the teens, aged 17, walked up to ask why. But the truck accelerated, running the girl over, police say. Officers will be recommending charges of assault against the two passengers and a charge of hit-and-run causing bodily harm against the driver.

Body of dead children's mom found in river

Winnipeg. Woman had been missing since children found at home

Winnipeg police confirmed Sunday that the body pulled from the Red River on Saturday morning is that of Lisa Gibson.

The mother of two disappeared after both her children were reportedly found drowned in the bathtub of their Westwood neighbourhood home on Wednesday.

Police were initially hopeful that Gibson was alive and in hiding, but by Friday they began concentrating their efforts on searching for her body on the Assiniboine River, which runs near her home.

Her body was spotted by

Lisa Gibson, 32 CONTRIBUTED

passersby in a canoe.

Const. Eric Hofley said that despite finding Gibson's body, the investigation will continue.

Hofley said autopsies have been conducted on Anna, 2, and Nicholas, three months, but they would not be releasing the cause of death due to the ongoing investigation.

Hofley added an autopsy has also been completed on Lisa's body.

The police tape is now down around the family's home, but a makeshift memorial of balloons, flowers, stuffed animals and notes of love and sadness remains piled on the property. A group of mothers held a vigil there Thursday night. Many others have taken to social media to express their sadness.

There are reports Gibson was suffering from postpartum psychosis, but Hofley said he could not confirm any such details.

PM no longer signs big hospitality bills

Unannounced move.

Harper has handed off the political hot potato to the clerk of the Privy Council following controversy over costs

Stephen Harper's signature is no longer needed for big hospitality bills run up by his bureaucrats.

The prime minister has delegated that sometimes controversial duty to his senior public servant, the clerk of the Privy Council.

The unannounced move — made last June — followed revelations of large hospitality expenses approved by Harper himself in the months before.

The prime minister's pre-approval was given for an estimated $22,000 hospitality bill in late 2011 for visiting European bureaucrats, for example, at a time of federal belt-tightening.

Prime Minister Stephen Harper

The final hospitality costs for the three-day Ottawa event — including alcohol — were lower than expected, at $16,000 for 45 people, 10 of them Canadian public servants.

The year before, The Canadian Press reported that Harper personally approved a $7,400 bill for "refreshments" at a town hall meeting of public servants. The $42,000 event was held at the posh Westin Hotel, where meeting rooms cost $5,000 an hour.

Under the previous protocol, Harper was required to pre-approve all hospitality costs in excess of $5,000, under a government-wide directive to all ministers.

But Treasury Board rules also allow a minister to delegate the authority to a deputy minister.

Wayne Wouters, clerk of the Privy Council, now has signing authority, and must report his approvals on amounts over $5,000 to Harper every six months.

In the first six months after getting signing authority, Wouters reported, he approved $43,550 in hospitality at three events, including a whopping $27,000 for a four-day international spy conference in May 2012.

Total costs for the International Intelligence Review Agencies conference, held in Ottawa for 60 delegates, ran to $136,000. The Canadian Press obtained the information under the Access to Information Act. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Arrest made after online threats to U.K. feminist

British police on Sunday arrested a man in connection with online threats made to-

Caroline Criado-Perez says she has been facing a deluge of abuse — including threats to rape and kill her — over Twitter during the past sev-

83 killed in Egypt clashes

Crackdown expected.
PM given right to give military power to arrest

Escalating the confrontation after clashes that left 83 supporters of Egypt's ousted Islamist president dead, the interim government moved Sunday toward dismantling two pro-

Mohammed Morsi sit-in camps, accusing protesters of "terrorism" and vowing to deal with them decisively.

Morsi's Muslim Brotherhood denounced Saturday's bloodshed as evidence of the brutality of the military-backed regime. But many accused the group's leaders of trying to capitalize on the loss of life to win sympathy after millions took to the streets in a show of support for the military chief who ousted Morsi in a coup.

Gen. Abdel-Fattah el-Sissi said he would take the popular support as a mandate to deal with violence and "potential terrorism."

Brotherhood supporters staunchly reject the new leadership and insist the only solution is to reinstate Morsi. Meanwhile, the interim leadership is pushing ahead with a fast-track transition plan to return to a democratically elected government by early next year.

The violence continued Sunday, when clashes during funerals for two of the slain Morsi supporters left two men dead and scores injured.

Interior Minister Mohammed Ibrahim warned security forces would deal decisively with attempts to destabilize the country. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Talks. Israeli cabinet approves release of 104 Palestinian prisoners

The U.S. on Sunday announced the resumption of Israeli-Palestinian talks following years of stalemate, after Israel's cabinet agreed to release 104 Palestinian prisoners convicted of deadly attacks.

The return to direct contact between the sides gave U.S. Secretary of State John Kerry his first concrete achievement after months of shuttle diplomacy.

The U.S. said preliminary talks would begin Monday, but it remained unclear whether they will lead to a formal resumption of peace talks that broke down in 2008.

Despite a return to the table, neither side appeared upbeat. Each has blamed the other for the lack of success in 20 years of negotiations interrupted by bouts of violence.

Chief Palestinian negotiator Saeb Erekat welcomed the vote on the prisoners as a "step toward peace," one he said is long overdue.

Negotiators made progress in previous rounds, and the outlines of a deal have emerged — a Palestinian state in most of the West

Those talks broke down before the sides could tackle the most explosive issues, a partition of Jerusalem and the fate of Palestinian refugees and their descendants.

Israeli analyst Yossi Alpher said that a prisoner release in stages gives Netanyahu additional leverage during negotiations.

"Netanyahu can refuse to release the later batches if there's no progress."

Afghan president accepts invitation to visit Pakistan

Afghanistan's president will make his first visit to Pakistan in more than a year in an effort to mend strained relations between the two countries and in the hopes that he can enlist the support of the new Pakistani government to help end the nearly 12-year Afghan war, an official said Sunday.

The two nations have had tense ties for years, and Afghanistan has accused Pakistan in the past of supporting the Taliban in the movement's fight against the Afghan government.

But the election two months ago of a new prime minister in Pakistan has raised hopes in Kabul that Islamabad will be more open to helping start peace talks with the Taliban than the previous government — which it perceived to be more hostile to Afghanistan and its president, Hamid Karzai.

Pakistan is seen as a key player in the Afghan peace process. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The driver of a Spanish train that derailed at high speed killing 79 people was provisionally charged Sunday with multiple cases of negligent homicide.

A court statement said investigative magistrate Luis Alaez released Francisco Jose Garzon Amo without bail.

The statement said Garzon must appear in court once a week and is forbidden to leave Spain without permission.

Garzon was not sent to jail or required to post bail because none of the parties involved felt there was a risk of him fleeing or attempting to destroy evidence, the statement said.

Garzon was questioned for almost two hours at the court in Santiago de Compostela, the northwestern town near where the accident occurred.

Garzon was driving the train carrying 218 passengers in eight cars that hurtled far past the 80 km/h speed limit into a high-risk curve on Wednesday, tumbling off the tracks and slamming into a concrete wall, with some of the cars catching fire.

A local resident who rushed to the scene of the accident said in an interview broadcast Sunday that minutes after the crash Garzon had told him he had been going fast and couldn't brake.

"He said he had needed to brake but couldn't," said Evaristo Iglesias.

Demand for cyber insurance takes off

Online attacks. Spate of high-profile data breaches has made firms eager to protect themselves from losses

When Brian Rosebaum started pitching cyber insurance to companies in 2006, he was met with blank stares from risk managers and resistance from information technology experts, who insisted their networks were impenetrable.

All of that has changed in the past year and a half, said Rosebaum, who heads the cyber insurance division of Aon Corp.'s Canadian brokerage arm.

"We've reached a threshold where people are now coming to us instead of us going to them," said the vice president.

Insurance brokers say the frequency of high-profile data breaches is causing a surge in demand for insurance products that protect against losses stemming from cyber attacks.

A breach can be costly.

Data breaches

- On Thursday, U.S. prosecutors charged five people with stealing 160 million credit and debit card numbers from companies including 7-Eleven Inc., JC Penney and French retailer Carrefour, calling it the largest data breach in the country's history.
- Other victims of data breaches in the past few years include Sony's PlayStation Network, financial institution Citigroup and a number of Canadian government departments.

Companies face notifying clients that their personal information has been compromised, offering credit protection services, hiring a crisis management firm and defending against lawsuits.

Aon has placed more cyber insurance policies in just the last 18 months than it did in the previous five years, said Rosebaum. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Merger to create world's largest ad agency

Omnicom Group Inc. and Publicis Groupe SA say they are combining in a "merger of equals" that will create the world's largest advertising firm, worth more than $35 billion U.S.

The move is designed to bolster the companies' focus on growing Asian and Latin American markets.

But although a combined firm will allow for more pricing power in general, the decrease in competition could present regulatory hurdles in the U.S. and Europe.

Client conflicts also could be an issue, as rivals such as Coca-Cola Co. and PepsiCo, McDonald's and Taco Bell, Johnson & Johnson and Procter & Gamble now find themselves under the same umbrella.

Ottawa. Aircraft maker's proposal could speed up retirement of Sea Kings

The Harper government has been asked to accept the air force's long-delayed CH-148 Cyclone maritime helicopters as they are currently configured and gradually phase them into service using regular software upgrades intended to make the aircraft fully operational.

The proposal is being floated publicly by Sikorsky aircraft in the wake of a federal cabinet shuffle that has left both National Defence and Public Works with seasoned but not yet fully acclimatized ministers.

At the same time, the aircraft maker and Defence have agreed to a separate plan that would allow flight testing to begin on four helicopters that have been delivered to the military air base in Shearwater, N.S. Twenty-eight of the aircraft have been ordered.

The evaluation, to begin in early August, inches the politically painful program ahead for the Conservative government, which has grown more impatient and vocal in its frustration over the replacement of decades-old Sea Kings.

The helicopters were first ordered in 2004 by Paul Martin's Liberal government at a cost of nearly $3.2 billion — a figure which has now ballooned to $5.7 billion — and were supposed to be in service by 2008. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Fleet grounded

- The failure to deliver new aircraft — detailed a few years ago in a scathing auditor general's report — was underscored over the last few weeks with the grounding of the entire CH-124 Sea King fleet.
- One of the nearly 50-year-old helicopters was involved in a spectacular accident that saw the blades on one aircraft chipped away when the chopper unexpectedly careened forward.

K STANDS FOR KITSCH

Well, K-days has come and gone. Thousands of people have gorged themselves on unhealthy food, bought magic cleaning cloths and knives that will never go dull, listened to some music and watched the fireworks. All good stuff I suppose, but I have a question for you. How much does K-Days do to draw attention to Edmonton?

Every year the Calgary Stampede gets lots of national, and often international, media coverage. But K-Days doesn't earn our city a line of ink or a minute of airtime outside the city. That should come as no surprise to anyone.

Midway rides and mini-doughnuts just aren't newsworthy. About the only thing that would attract media attention from outside the city is if there were a tragic accident on one of the rides.

The reason the Calgary Stampede attracts attention is that it has a theme and it creates an experience the rest of the activities are built around. We don't. We are one of a number of similar fairs that take place across the country. There is nothing particularly special about what we do every summer. But there could be and there should be. We are becoming a big city and we should start acting like one.

We need an event that will draw attention to all the other things this city has to offer. It should be visual; it should be exciting and, above all, it should be something different.

What if we were to create a contest and a million dollar prize for the best whatever? Maybe it could be 10 days of fireworks displays that Edmontonians could vote on. A million dollars should be enough to attract a lot of attention. If we were to draw competitors from around the world it would also buy us the kind of media attention that we are lacking.

What could we do with a million bucks?

We need an event that will draw attention to all the other things this city has to offer. It should be visual; it should be exciting and, above all, it should be something different.

And if a million dollars seems too extravagant, I need to remind you that we threw millions of dollars at the Indy. We have spent millions of dollars on Edmonton Stories and we are spending nearly a million on Make Something Edmonton.

I am the first to admit that maybe a fireworks contest isn't the kind of event we need.

But we do need something. Ideally we should have a million dollar prize for a summer, winter, spring and fall event. That would get us noticed. Edmonton: The Million Dollar City has a very nice ring to it.

Massive crowd to see Pope Francis

3 million

The Vatican said more than 3 million people were on hand for the mass, based on information from World Youth Day organizers and local authorities who estimated two-thirds were from outside Rio. That was far higher than the 1 million at the last World Youth Day in Madrid in 2011 or the 850,000 at Toronto's 2002 concluding Mass. The next World Youth Day will be in Krakow, Poland, in 2016.

All rounder Rash makes Room for talented writers

Q&A. Oscar-winning screenwriter talks about his new show The Writers' Room and audiences' newfound respect for storytelling

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

Jim Rash's resumé is already pretty robust, earning acclaim as a comic actor (Community), director (The Way, Way Back) and screenwriter (The Descendants, for which he and co-writer Nat Faxon won an Oscar), but there's always room for more. His latest gig is hosting The Writers' Room, a roundtable discussion series going behind the scenes of fan-favourite television series like Breaking Bad, Game of Thrones and New Girl.

The idea of TV being "the writer's medium" has really taken hold with audiences. Where do you think that's coming from?

I feel it's because of this rabid fan base, this need for knowledge that we all have. I feel like they have respect now for the storytelling. Not that no one had an idea where it came from, but I feel like people have a newfound respect for good stories. I think TV's in a really great place right now as far as embracing flawed, sometimes questionable people, from Dexter to Breaking Bad to any of these shows like Mad Men — complex characters that you get so frustrated by. In the age of binge-watching, catching up on shows that you missed, all these things lead you to wondering about the story.

You also have things like Comic-Con, where showrunners get as much attention as actors.

Yes, I think it's another outlet. It's another version of social interaction and connection to people that we didn't have certainly when I was growing up. We just watched the TV show, maybe read a magazine or a review.

If you could pick any series, living or dead, from the history of television for The Writers' Room, what are your dream choices?

It's tough. I'd be very curious talking to MASH writers just because I have a fascination with the balance of comedy and extreme drama and just the idea behind that show. I feel like

Actor, director and screenwriter Jim Rash hosts The Writers' Room. GETTY IMAGES

I'd want to do a moment with the Cheers writers just because that's probably the quintessential show of my life. Then I think I would want to sit down with Lost because I have a lot of questions, being a guy who watched from the beginning with groups.

How about having Dan Harmon on The Writers' Room now that he's back running Community?

I'd love to do Community. I know that Walking Dead was on the list to be done, but it was an AMC decision. I start with Breaking Bad and then I get to do that. So I feel like there's lots of shows that would be all on board to do it. And I think a lot of them, as soon as they see what it is, I feel like they'll embrace it because it really is a celebration of what they're doing. So I hope they'll see that it's light and fun and introspective about their process.

Garfield extends his web

Q&A. The Amazing Spider-Man star reveals his fear of famous people and his hopes for his superhero sequel

For his last Comic-Con appearance, nearly a year before the release of 2012's The Amazing Spider-Man, Andrew Garfield wore a store-bought Spider-Man suit and gave a heartfelt speech about what the character means to him.

Thousands of fans who'd known Tobey Maguire as Peter Parker instantly had reason to embrace the new star. But Garfield was just as nervous before appearing inside the San Diego Convention Center's largest hall recently to promote The Amazing Spider-Man 2, which is set for release next year.

The 29-year-old actor again attended the presentation in his Spidey suit — this time a screen-worthy version — before appearing as himself to answer fan questions. He spoke about Comic-Con, his hopes for the second film and why he's afraid of famous people.

What's it like to be back at Comic-Con after your first experience?

I had so much fun, and I think about it often. It was a real highlight. It was like part extreme sport — it felt like skydiving, the amount of adrenaline that I had. I was like shaking and breathing incredibly hard.

Your recent remarks that Spider-Man could be gay generated a lot of response. Were you surprised?

I don't know about the response. All I know is it's an interesting question, more philosophically than anything. Obviously making this version of Peter Parker suddenly bisexual or gay wouldn't really make logical or dramatic sense. It was a hypothetical kind of question about the nature of these comic book characters and the nature of this particular character, and whether sexuality, race, any of those things makes any difference to the character of Peter Parker.

How do you like working with Jamie Foxx, who is playing the villain Electro?

Famous people scare me. I get really nervous around famous people. ... I overcompensate (with) how unimpressed I am, which is completely and utter rubbish. So I'm a fan. But of course, with someone like Jamie who's not only this presence, but such an incredible talent, multitasking, who I've been a fan of for ages, is just a great man, a great person, and a gentle, kind, good soul and good spirit, and then suddenly it's like, let's shoot some hoops, have a chat, meet his daughter. It's that weird myth of fame, of actors and musicians or whatever being any different from anyone else. It's that weird thing that I still (get) excited, "Oh they're on a pedestal, they're better, they're better, they're just better." It's just not the truth. I love busting that myth any chance I get.

How do you like working with Emma Stone, and is there a danger of taking work home?

Well, you're assuming something there, which I will not be commenting about.

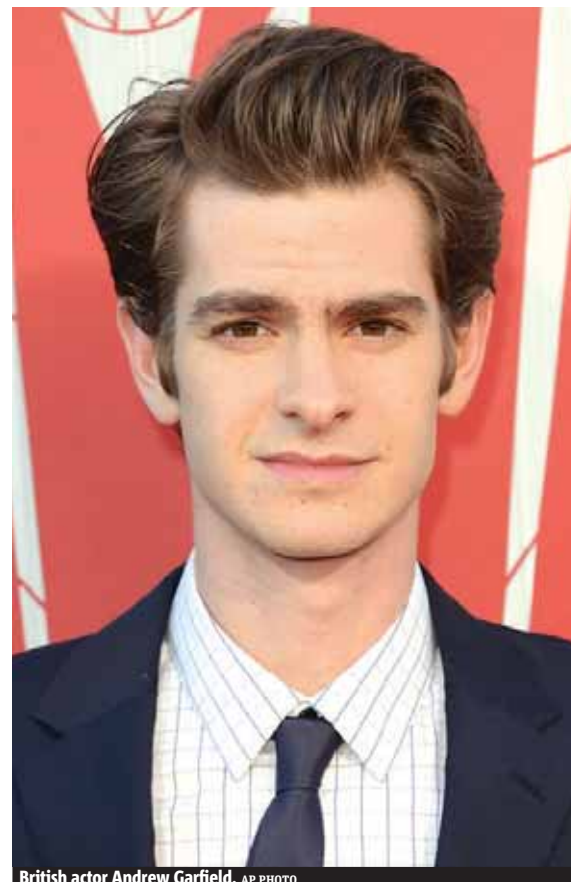

So how do you like working with Emma Stone?

I love it. She's a great gal, and, as we all know, a singular talent, like a completely unique, singular talent. She just was born like a purebred, in terms of you just say, "Go" and she goes. It's infuriating because I can't keep up with it.

Where does Spidey go from here?

We've got such a multidimensional story with multidimensional characters and a real cohesion. It's big, it's small. I've just got such a good feeling about it. I'm really hoping it lives up to my expectations.

Amanda Bynes' parents worried about their cash cow?

Amanda Bynes' parents' first attempt to secure a conservatorship over their troubled daughter didn't pan out, but they're not giving up just yet.

Rick and Lynn Bynes have filed a petition requesting they be appointed Amanda's temporary conservators until a more permanent decision can be made.

"We are deeply concerned that Amanda poses a substantial risk to herself, to others and to property based on recent events in her life," the petition reads, according to TMZ.

The document points to "extremely paranoid" behaviour.

"She would cover smoke alarms with towels, tape windows shut and cover her car's dashboard with cardboard and tape" because she claimed that "cameras were watching her from inside these places," according to the document.

Rick and Lynn are mostly worried about the amount of damage Amanda could do with her $3.3 million in assets.

"We are informed and believe that a substantial amount of money is being used to pay for marijuana and other illegal substances, and possible plastic surgery," the petition states.

Are creepy old men not a sought after demographic?

A Taylor Swift's Biggest Fan contest is cancelled when it looks like a creepy 39-year-old man is going to win. "Not so fast, there" says Taylor. "Is he perhaps someone who could potentially cause me to experience a dramatic May-December-type heartbreak? Does his name rhyme with 'sadness'?"

Friends are reportedly concerned Emma Roberts is turning into the next celebrity train wreck. "But," says Lindsay Lohan, "my reign has only just begun."

Gwyneth Paltrow was observed at a restaurant eating clams and lobster rolls while her kids munched on chicken nuggets. Poor children. Last time that happened, they were not allowed anything but hay shakes and pictures of green beans for a week after.

Dina Lohan was reportedly drunk and slurred her words when she called Lindsay in rehab for a long-distance family therapy session. "Try topping that, Emma Roberts. I dare you," says Lindsay.

Celebrity Math. Question: If David Spade's mansion sells for $10.3 million after six years on the market and Goldie Hawn and Kurt Russell sell their Malibu mansion for $9.5 million, how will Courtney Love pay the $260,000 she owes in taxes? Answer: By asking Justin Bieber, who made $58 million last year, Spike Lee who's trying to raise $1.25 million on Kickstarter and Teen Mom star and bottomless well of ignorance, Farrah Abraham, who has so far made $119,576.39 off her sex tape.

IT'S ALL
RELATIVE

When it comes to family vacations, you don't want to leave anything behind — not a child, not a bathing suit, not a toothbrush, and certainly not your established rules and routines.

Is it a drag sticking to routines while on holidays? Absolutely. Is it worth it? One hundred per cent. Sure, go a little crazy with food (and wine, for Mom and Dad only), but try to keep the lid on such things as letting the kids stay up hours later than they usually do. Any child under three will not sleep in to make up for lost time, and they will be cranky.

It's also important to keep some basic rules around meal time alive during a holiday. If soda pop is not allowed at breakfast at home, it's probably good to stick with that during a road trip as well. Finding the time to have at least one nutritious meal a day can make a big difference, both in your waistlines and in helping the kids feel good.

Personal hygiene is another thing you don't want to let go, particularly if you are dealing with teenage boys who have already minimized their shower- and tooth-brushing time to infinitesimal levels. If Wednesday is "shower night" at home, keep it going while you're away. Trick them into thinking a Tuesday is a Wednesday if the logistics don't work. What? You're the boss!

Parenting. What's that rash? Forget sex. In my day. You look great! are among things not to say to new parents

From diet tips to "little baby, little problems," sleep-deprived and new parents have heard it all. And they want you to stop.

Most every new parent has a greatest hits of lame advice and annoying remarks. For fitness buff Brook Benten, mom of four-month-old Hayes, her list included her post-baby body.

"My swollen uterus made me look like I was still five months pregnant," said the Round Rock, Texas, mom. "I was elated to be a mother, but I knew good and well that I looked baaaaad. Well-intending visitors would look me once over and say, 'Wow! You look great!'"

Brandi Jordan, who owns a parenting resource centre in Los Angeles, said the way to avoid ticking off new parents is pretty simple.

"I think that people should not give advice. Period," she said. "People see it as open license when they see someone with a baby to give them their opinion on how they should have socks on, or they should have a hat on, or they need sunblock, or you shouldn't be taking them out, they're too young. Some people make themselves armchair experts because they've read a lot of things."

That, she said, is why the what-not-to-say problem is so out of control these days. Blogs, social networks and simple online searches are the armchair expert's best friends, said Jordan, who has a six-year-old.

Instead of advice, how about not coming over for a visit when you have a cold, even though you think you and your kids are no longer contagious?

But she also has a suggestion for new parents: How about not rejecting outright the experiences of your own parents due to their grandparently status?

"A lot of new parents discount what their own parents actually know, but a lot of grandparents do have good traditional things that work really well," she said.

First, she said, parents need to realize that they really do need help.

"Before, you didn't need help because your family was right there and did everything, but so many people are far removed from their families."

But make sure help is help. Visits should be 10 minutes, not two hours, in the early days unless you plan to throw in a load of laundry, do dishes or cook a meal.

Dr. Richard So, a pediatrician at Cleveland Clinic Children's hospital, has three kids of his own. The youngest is not yet two.

His advice for well-meaning loved ones: "Ninety per cent is just reassuring that mother that she's doing the right things, that she's not going to harm her baby," he said. "All a new baby needs to do is eat, sleep, poop and grow."

Bocconcini are small semisoft mozzarella cheeses. They come in large or mini balls. If you are using the larger ones, cut them into quarters. Today, bocconcini cheese is made from a combination of water buffalo milk and cow's milk.

1. Salad: Lightly coat small skillet with cooking spray and add the oil. Sauté onion slices over medium heat 10 minutes or until tender and lightly browned. Add sugar and sauté another 5 minutes. Set aside.

2. Arrange the tomatoes, bocconcini and olives on a serving platter. Place the caramelized onions on top.

3. To make the dressing: Whisk together the oil, sour cream, mayonnaise, vinegar, honey and garlic until well blended. Pour the dressing evenly over

Ingredients

Salad

- 2 tsp (10 ml) vegetable oil
- 1/2 large sweet white onion, thinly sliced
- 1 tsp (5 ml) brown sugar
- 2 large field tomatoes, cut into 1/4-inch (6 mm) slices
- 4 plum tomatoes, each cut into 4 wedges
- 1 1/2 cups (375 ml) cherry or grape tomatoes, cut in half
- 2 oz (60 g) mini bocconcini cheese, thinly sliced
- 1/4 cup (60 ml) halved olives

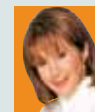

Dressing

- 2 tbsp (30 ml) olive oil
- 1 tbsp (15 ml) 3% sour cream
- 1 tbsp (15 ml) light mayo
- 1 1/2 tsp (7.5 ml) balsamic vinegar
- 1/2 tsp (2.5 ml) honey
- 1/2 tsp (2.5 ml) chopped garlic
- 3 tbsp (45 ml) chopped fresh basil for garnish

Chickpeas and nectarines in an anything-but-boring salad

Having salad for dinner may sound boring, but it doesn't have to be. It's easy to toss together a delicious (and nutritious!) salad that goes way beyond the lettuce-tomato-

Ingredients

- Two 15-oz can chickpeas, drained, rinsed and dried with paper towels
- 5 tbsp olive oil, divided
- 1 tsp curry powder
- Salt and ground black pepper
- 4 tbsp rice vinegar
- 4 tsp brown sugar
- 2 tsp Dijon mustard
- 1 bunch Swiss chard, chopped
- 5-oz package baby arugula
- 1 seedless cucumber, sliced
- 4 stalks celery, thinly sliced
- 3 nectarines, pitted and thinly sliced

Protein suggestions

- Soft-boiled or poached eggs
- Sliced cooked chicken breast

The greatest intern fails

Horror stories galore — including dead dogs and Twitter meltdowns

KATHRYN GILBERT

Metro World News

Cinema reflects all our real life hopes and fears — love affairs, the much feted zombie apocalypse, rags to riches tales, the list goes on. And its latest addition is that post-college, unpaid right of passage, as portrayed by Vince Vaughn and Owen Wilson's straight-shooting-titled The Internship. But is it a hope or a fear? In a job market where you need experience to get experience, persuading someone to let you work your ass off for them for free is tough. The fashion industry has become particularly notorious in the world of unpaid labour. Because whilst getting your foot in the door at Vogue is the modern day equivalent of being accepted into NASA way back when, there are a lot of horror stories out there. From hydration politics (for real) to social media meltdowns, we've rounded up the best of them. Or perhaps that should be the worst of them.

When Prada confirms that they're sending all the looks your boss wants.

The Tumblr uprising

We have no idea who is behind the new Tumblr called Fashion Intern Problems but it channels the hopes, fears and anxieties of a multitude of souls. Plus, it reads like an entire season of The Hills — if it were written by Lauren Weisberger. And it's got a lot of Beyoncé GIFS. So, you know, win-win.

The intern who tried to bring down Hearst

Diana Wang, the "Intern Muckracker," tried to fight the good fight. Her four-month-long accessories internship with Harper's Bazaar ended in a lawsuit against Hearst that grabbed international headlines. Wang claimed that her 40-hour plus weeks and duties such as filing her bosses' expense reports went beyond the legal limits of her arrangement. But whilst it was an undoubtedly brave thing to do, it also kind of didn't really work. Other interns refused to jump on the class action bandwagon and so now her case is limping on solo. That being said, Wang isn't the only one to try to defend herself. Conde Nast is also now fending off lawsuits from two individuals, one of whom never met a single paid member of staff at W.

@MarcJacobsIntl
Spelling is hard for me. I hate this job. Hope they find someone soon. Robert is picky! We have presented him with 50 people. He's not happy

The great Marc Jacobs Twitter implosion

If you're going to break rank and air your dirty laundry in public, there probably isn't a worse way to do it than via social media. Especially not on an account with more than a million followers. But after deciding he couldn't hack it anymore, the intern in charge of Marc Jacobs Intl.'s Twitter informed the entirety of the Internet: "Good luck! I pray for you all. If you get the job! I'm out of here. See ya! Don't want to be ya! Roberts a tyrant! Seriously! He is tough!" To further his case he also protested: "Spelling is hard for me." Doubtless, neither his tweeting skills nor his literacy are going to go down well with the future employers who will never, ever hire him.

The caste system — via water cooler

Dead dogs, lawsuits and highly public breakdowns have nothing on this horror story. Reported by Fashionista, one former intern wasn't allowed to use the same water cooler as the paid employees. We'll just leave you with that one.

The untimely demise of Alan TBH Plumptre

Hats off to the intern who managed to inadvertently allow the death of one of the fashion world's most beloved pets, which had a Twitter following to rival Choupette's. The intern in question was walking Tatter's in-house dog when his head got stuck in the revolving doors. A gargantuan rescue attempt ensued, with no less than two fire engines (yes, that's two burning homes that bit the dust) and 10 firefighters rushing to the scene. But alas, nothing could be done for the dachshund. Despite the media being up in arms over this, nothing is now known of the culprit of the crime — a.k.a. the intern. A silence that speaks volumes, one might say.

How to make that major decision

Specialize this. A fresh crop of high school grads are gearing up for campus life — but how do you know what to study?

JULIE KAYZERMAN
Metro World News in New York

For graduating seniors in high school, the excitement of completing the university or college application process and heading off to school just can't be matched. But often, the excitement ends where the anxiety about choosing a major — and the big life questions that come with it — begins. In their new book, The Secrets of College Success, professors Jeremy S. Hyman and Lynn F. Jacobs share their tips for students looking for the right major.

Take a minute

Upon entering university, many students are encouraged

Take a deep breath and investigate your options at school — don't pick your major at the door. ISTOCK to declare a major right away, but according to Hyman, that isn't necessary. "We recommend the following: don't major at the door!" she says. "I don't think picking a major is all that important and I think when possible, it's good to delay."

Take advanced courses

Many schools offer introductory courses that are watered-down introductions to subjects as a whole. Therefore students don't really get a sense of what the major is like until they take advanced courses, according to Hyman. "When possible we think it's best to test the waters," she says, "especially if you can take one or two upper division courses before putting down your quarter."

Go with what you love

It's important to pick something you're interested in, but many students have varied interests and have trouble when focusing on just one course of study. "A lot of students like to double and even triple major and sometimes add a minor or two as well," says Hyman. "This can be a good idea if the majors have some relation to each other, but we think a far better idea is that you have a primary interest." According to Hyman, when picking a major, you are committing yourself to 10 or 12 required courses, so picking two majors — especially ones that don't relate to each other — can be a tough venture.

Don't focus too much on the money

"When you major in something, especially (when it is an) undergraduate major that is followed by graduate school," says Hyman, "you're having to pick a career 10 years ahead of yourself and what you think will be good 10 years from now."

Hyman urges students to use caution when thinking so far ahead, because high-paying career choices can change, and so can the interests of the student. "When picking the major, the student should be an educated consumer and (should) use the sources available rather than just lunging at something because they've done it before."

Your major and your career don't always have to be the same thing

Of course there are fields such as health care and information technology that require specific training and Hyman says it makes sense to match your major to a career. However, she says that picking a major is not the end-all, be-all decision. "What businesses complain about most when they hire people is not that they have the wrong major," Hyman says, "but that they have bad writing, analytical or interpersonal skills." Furthermore, Hyman says that there is no real rush. "Students think when they pick a major they're locked in for life to that major and that career. Beginning students should realize that at many colleges it's extremely easy to change a major."

Crowdfunding only limited by imagination

Show me the money.

More businesses turn to the public for help

Crippled by mounting financial debt, father and son duo David and Brian Best had few options left to save the potato farm their family has operated in Tryon, P.E.I., since the early 1930s.

It was a customer who dropped in to Best Acre Farms to buy seed potatoes that sparked the family's current bid to save their livelihood — crowdfunding.

"I told him I was pulling strings to find out how I can source money, and he said, 'Well, you might try crowdfunding,'" said Brian Best.

Best did just that, and without a crop in the ground, he has dedicated much of his time to the online campaign, which aims to raise $200,000 by Aug. 1.

As of Thursday, the campaign on Indiegogo.com has generated around $8,000.

Regardless of the cause, the components of a successful crowdfunder often remain the same, said Sandeep Pillai, a graduate student at the University of Toronto's Rotman School of Management who has studied crowdfunding. "That ability to engage people ... is very critical in a crowdfunding campaign. Let it be a potato farm, let it be a solar watch, let it be a coffee down the street, what-

Success tastes good

In Halifax, residents can see the success of the Brooklyn Warehouse's crowdfunding campaign as they drive past the restaurant in the city's north end. About two years ago, co-owners George and Leo Christakos crowdfunded $23,000 over 60 days to avoid the bank and expand the restaurant. George said aside from the obvious financial benefit, crowdfunding also doubles as a marketing campaign. "It is an incredible way to create awareness and marketing for an upcoming project," said Christakos.

ever it is," said Pillai. "When a crowdfunding campaign does not become successful, it's because you were not able to engage the crowd."

Pillai said the idea of crowdfunding isn't new, but its accessibility is. "It's a sign of the times," said Pillai. "There's a venue to do it; before there was not."

Steady Snedeker masters Glen Abbey

Golf. Nashville native gets big break along the way to win his first Canadian Open Brandt Snedeker shot a 2-under par 70 on Sunday to win the RBC Canadian Open by three strokes.

The 32-year-old, who took the lead on Saturday when second-round leader Hunter Mahan withdrew after his wife unexpectedly went into labour, finished at 16 under for the tournament at Glen Abbey Golf Club for his second victory of the season and the sixth of his career.

"This is a tournament I said early on in my career I wanted to win just because my caddie is actually from Canada and it's his national open. It meant a lot to him, meant a lot to me," Snedeker said. "Third oldest tournament on Tour and it's got some great history to it, and now to put my name on that trophy, it means a lot."

Dustin Johnson (70), Matt Kuchar (71), William McGirt (68) and Jason Bohn (71) tied for second at 13 under.

Mahan was seemingly at the top of his game and had a two-stroke lead at 13 under after Thursday's 67 and Friday's 64 before rushing home to be with his wife, Kandi, who gave birth to daughter Zoe Olivia Mahan early Sunday in Texas.

"Zoe will be getting a very nice baby gift from me. I can't thank Kandi enough for going into labour early. I don't

Snedeker was 1 under on the day after the front nine and birdied No. 10 to move to 16 under overall. He gave that shot back on No. 12, but birdied No. 16 and parred No. 17 and No. 18 to secure $1,008,000 of the $5.6-million purse.

Kuchar said the breezy conditions made for a tough final round.

"Today was by far the hardest day. The wind was strong and coming from a different direction," he said. "Snedeker played some great golf. I played with him Thursday and Friday. He was just so steady and played good for four days."

Hot Sauce spices up UFC fight card

Biggest loser. Despite falling short of victory, middleweight fighter wins over crowd, boss in fight of the night

Little-known middleweight Trevor (Hot Sauce) Smith lost but left Seattle with a $50,000 US bonus cheque in his pocket and praise from UFC president Dana White.

"I told Smith, 'I didn't even know your name yesterday,'" White told reporters after Smith and Ed (Short Fuse) Herman won fight of the night honours Saturday with 15 minutes of bone-rattling action. "I know your name today."

In contrast, Canadian welterweight contender Rory (Ares) MacDonald won comfortably but drew a tongue-lashing from his boss and boos

The big hitters

In a fight where defence seemed optional, Smith was good on 87 of 108 significant strike attempts while Herman connected on 73 of 129.

- In contrast, MacDonald connected on just 46 of 118 significant strike attempts. Ellenberger's figures were even worse, 19 of 97.

from the KeyArena crowd of 7,816 after a methodical contain event victory over Jake (The Juggernaut) Ellenberger.

Such is life in the UFC, where winning often isn't enough. The organization is set up to reward performance, with most fight contracts carrying an automatic matching win bonus. So an undercard fighter on a basic purse of $8,000 can double his pay with a victory.

Each card carries $50,000 bonuses for fight of the night (for the winner and loser) and for submission and knockout of the night. The UFC is coy about the rest of its bonus structure but is known for cutting discretionary cheques for outstanding performances.

"You want more money? Go get it," said White, who has been under fire in recent months over fighter pay. "Go get it. Believe me, guys who deserve more money, we pay them. We pay the guys who make a difference."

Smith (10-4) and Herman (21-7 with one no contest) are not likely to win any titles, but they put on a show, connecting on a combined 160 significant strikes in three rounds, according to FightMetric. Both fighters were repeatedly wobbled throughout the free-swinging fight, which drew oohs and aahs from the crowd. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Shea makes sudden impact as U.S. wins Gold Cup

Brek Shea sure knows how to make an entrance.

Just 42 seconds after coming into the game as a substitute Sunday, Shea pounced after Landon Donovan whiffed on a shot and poked the ball into the net. His goal in the 69th minute gave the United States a 1-0 victory over Panama and the CONCACAF Gold Cup title.

It is the fifth Gold Cup title for the Americans, but their first since 2007. It also is the first international title as a coach for Jurgen Klinsmann, who won the 1990 World Cup and 1996 European Championship with Germany.

"It doesn't matter who scored today," Shea said. "We won."

The U.S. is doing a lot of that lately. This was the 11th straight victory for the Americans, four more than their previous record. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Horoscopes

♈ Aries

March 21 - April 20

Don't start the week in a negative frame of mind. Everything will be resolved to your complete satisfaction over the next seven days – as the Sun in your fellow Fire sign of Leo suggests.

♉ Taurus

April 21 - May 21

Recent setbacks may have been disappointing but you will begin to see them in a more positive light over the next few days.

♊ Gemini

May 22 - June 21

Beneath that cool exterior you are worrying about all sorts of weird and wonderful things. Why? It's really all good.

♋ Cancer

June 22 - July 23

Life has taken a more serious turn in recent days and you will certainly have to take a more responsible approach to matters related to your finances this coming week. Do whatever it takes to make ends meet.

♌ Leo

July 24 - Sept. 23

Something you hear today will no doubt worry you a bit but if you make an effort to read between the lines you may discover that the "facts" are not quite what they seem.

♍ Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

An interesting offer will come your way today but you are more than a little suspicious about it. Why would someone you hardly know want to help you? Whatever the reason it's a genuine offer, so say "Yes".

♎ Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

You don't need an excuse to have a good time so don't bother looking for one. The Sun in Leo demands that you spend as much time as you can with your real friends – they're the ones who make you laugh.

♏ Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

Whatever happens keep your wits about you and keep your eyes and ears open for opportunities you can exploit.

♐ Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

If something is bothering you – and it is – then you must pluck up the courage to ask for advice, even though you hate to reveal you are not in control.

♑ Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

From the look of your solar chart it seems you are in possession of inside information that can be used to further your ambitions. Is it immoral to do so? Of course not.

♒ Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

Someone is trying to grab your attention and sooner or later you are going to have to see what they want. Make it sooner if you can because if you are obliged to do them a favor

♓ Pisces

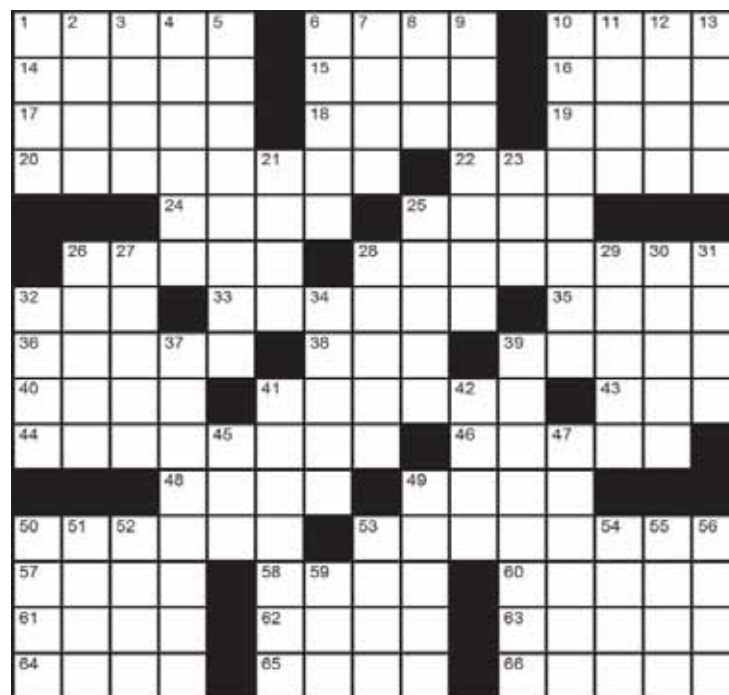

Feb. 20 - March 20

You seem to have overdone it a bit over the past week or so and now you must rest and recuperate. Even if you still seem strong physically your mind is certainly feeling the strain. SALLY BROMPTON
